Dear Dan, Gena and Reid,

Happy New Year! I am writing for some help. Could you please each read through a presentation of the OHATS web tool (reviewuation-type system) and give me your impressions on:
 "what does it mean to you, what do you think you can do with OHATS after you read this."

This will likely take between 15 to 30 minutes. I would like to use your input to make revisions before we send others to start looking at and maybe start using this system.

The presentation can be seen by clicking on a link located lower on the web link below. Once you get to this page you must select which version of the presentation to look at.

Please don't hold back any criticism. If possible, pretend you do not know what OHATS is. I would be very grateful for your feedback if possible by some time this week.

Thanks to each of you,
 Steve

What does this mean to me?
What do I think I can do w/ OHATS?

Welcome to the Organization History & Accomplishments Tracking System "OHATS"

Each day, every community organization stimulates and accomplishes change to support its mission and objectives. These actions may contribute to improvements for that organization as well as for other organizations and the broader community. Tracking actions and events important to an organization's success can help to identify what works, what does not, and how to better reach goals and produce desired outcomes. This tracking process results in an organizational history that staff and stakeholders can share and learn from. Also, this process can help identify positive and negative trends in organizational action over time and to demonstrate results and outcomes. Such a history of accomplishments and challenges is critical for organizations working to improve social outcomes that often are not changed for years and for which it is difficult to capture the day-to-day contributions toward those more distal outcomes.

I had to look this word up.

Organizations and their stakeholders use OHATS to describe the key events, actions and accomplishments in order to:

- (1) record a history that others can learn from (what works, what to avoid)
- (2) understand, demonstrate and improve their progress toward goals and objectives
- (3) understand, demonstrate and improve how their current efforts may contribute toward more long-term outcomes important to their mission

OHATS provides an organized, systematic way that any organization (non-profit, grantmaker, business, faith and service organizations) can use to record and report their contributions, actions of strategic and/or historical value, and other key events. Events and actions can be presented in a story format and can also be grouped and analyzed in order to see graphical patterns of progress over time. One valuable use of OHATS is to identify key factors that prevent and promote progress toward organizational goals of community change and development. Although OHATS uses a set of core measures for all participating organizations, it is usually adapted to fit the mission and objectives of each organization.

If you would like to use OHATS, simply follow the links below. You can contact the OHATS support system for help at anytime (ohats@tutormentorexchange.net). Some more information on what OHATS is and how to use it click on:

What would you like to do?

why what?

28 Evaluation is missing

① Tell me what to do from the first slide.
Where do I click?

#2 Some much papers yet may help you ^{missing?}

#3... Initiative Staff to ^{-delete} participate

Points 4 + 5 ^{are to} contradict to me #4 Throws me off

- IS OHATS Primarily used to evaluate community initiatives? That sends Collaboration to me. What can I use it if I'm on mind?

- Can I run off one page. I tried; GOT sidebar.

- Distal- Am I the only person who doesn't know what that word means?

Move up - OHATS HELPS community initiatives...

"Initiative" might want to use the word ^{organizational} ~~organizational~~

~~Sample results are those slides - I don't get it~~
I'm confused by previous slide to it
I like the community change slide

I don't understand Annual Assessment slide

II " III Comm #6 events

Did you define community change? - confused by slide
- move Benefits up top!

- Give me end slide - tell me what to do.

word maybe Bulb Points ~~use~~ you can use

- I find this interesting

Are the just here as examples of how you can use the OHATS page

re relationship + time factor
